

From: Edgar Mitchell [mitc1615@bellsouth.net]
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2009 1:23 PM
To: 'Carol Mersch'
Subject: RE: Museum Bibles

I'm suddenly very suspicious that James and David have been engaged in fraud, but insisted that all their copies had solid provenance. I wonder? EM

From: Carol Mersch [mailto:clm@tulsaconnect.com]
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2009 1:39 PM
To: Edgar Mitchell
Subject: Re: Museum Bibles

Edgar, I can't say what's going on in David's head, but both hypotheses may be true. According to John Stout, he never gave James any unmarked Bibles. All Bibles were engraved with serial numbers shortly after their arrival and John says James had little to do with the APL during that time. He mentioned that Harold Hill may have given James several unmarked Bibles since there were a number of them left over after A13 and A14 that were never flown, which would make Frohman's Bibles unauthenticated. When Frohman and James descended upon the John Stout lunar Bible kingdom they kicked up a maelstrom.

Frohman told me John was dead. It's hard to kill the truth. C.

- Original Message -----

From: Edgar Mitchell

To: 'Carol Mersch'

Sent: Friday, August 14, 2009 11:55 AM
Subject: RE: Museum Bibles

Carol, what are you suggesting? That the Bibles David has are not flown? Or just stating that there are other Bibles that John had that David did not know about? E

From: Carol Mersch [mailto:clm@tulsaconnect.com]
Sent: Friday, August 14, 2009 12:40 PM
To: Edgar Mitchell
Subject: Re: Museum Bibles

Not so. The Bibles he has appear to be quite the opposite. I'm not here to make trouble; just try to help and old reverend with his last wishes.

----- Original Message -----

From: Edgar Mitchell

To: 'Carol Mersch'

Sent: Friday, August 14, 2009 11:33 AM
Subject: RE: Museum Bibles

David wanted to believe that he and James had accounted for and had control of all the authenticated flown Bibles. Clearly not so. E